COMMENT ON EXAMINER'S STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

Applicant notes with appreciation the Notice of Allowance and the Examiner's Statement of Reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter. However, so as not to suggest that Applicant acquiesces in the Examiner's reasons for allowance, which Applicant does not, some comments are submitted.

The allowed subject matter is, of course, defined by the claims that have been allowed. Three independent claims and several dependent claims have been allowed. The Examiner's Statement is a brief recitation of one reason for allowance, of just one independent claim. It is just a statement of a single, non-exhaustive reason and should not be assumed to be the only reason for allowance. The Examiner's Statement tracks a portion of claim 1 only. It does not track claims 29 and 30, leaving the record unclear as to the reasons for allowance of those claims and as to any additional reason for allowance of claim 2. Applicant notes, most specifically, therefore, that claims 29 and 30 are not to be construed - And Applicant asserts they may not be construed - to contain the limitations set forth in the Examiner's Statement. Applicant does not agree that the reasoning expressed in the Examiner's Statement defines the distinguishing characteristics of claims 29 and 30 or their dependent claims. Neither does it disclose all of the distinguishing characteristics of claim 2.

The allowed claims thus stand on their own.

Respectfully submitted,

Steven J. Henry
